

USS ENTERPRISE, FIRST NUCLEAR AIRCRAFT CARRIER, BEING READIED FOR FLEET DUTY

BUILDER'S TRIALS -- Capt. Vincent de Poix, commanding officer of the USS Enterprise, chats with John Petty of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. following completion of Navy Acceptance Trials for the nuclear-powered carrier in the Atlantic Ocean off Newport News, Virginia. Square structures on bridge in background house huge radar units. Capt. de Poix said performance of the new ship and crew "exceeded expectations of all concerned." (61-14257)
