KENNEDY CHALLENGE -- Stating "I have only just begun to fight," Senator Edward Kennedy reaffirms his candidacy for the Democratic Party presidential nomination during a major address at Georgetown University in Washington. The Massachusetts lawmaker, who had lost to President Jimmy Carter in the Iowa caucuses, used the opportunity to take issue with several parts of Mr. Carter's State of the Union address. He told the audience that "The exercise of dissent is the essence of democracy." (80-376)
