CONSTITUTION COIN -- The winning design for a five dollar gold coin to commemorate the bicentennial of the United States Constitution has been selected by the Treasury Department. The obverse features an eagle clutching a quill pen and the reverse features a larger pen with the words "We the People" superimposed upon it. The quote is from the beginning of the Preamble of the Constitution. The design is by Marcel Jovine of Closter, New Jersey. A one dollar silver coin, designed by Patricia Lewis Verani of New Hampshire, will also be minted. The two artists were among 11 well-known sculptor-medalists invited to participate in the design contest. (87-158)
