Arriving at National Airport, in Washington, D. C., General of Army Douglas MacArthur, Mrs. MacArthur, and their son, Arthur, were warmly greeted by an estimated 12,000 people despite the fact that the General's airplane did not land until after midnight. High-ranking United States Government and military officials were present to welcome the General on his first visit to the United States in 14 years.

The photograph shows General MacArthur (on steps) acknowledging the cheers of the crowd at the airport as he leaves his airplane. Preceding him is Mrs. MacArthur, assisted by an aide. (51-6282P)

51-6282P - A su llegada al aeropuerto de Wáshington, el general Mac Arthur, su esposa y su hijo fueron recibidos por unas doce mil personas, a pesar de aterrizar a media noche. En la fotografía aparece el general respondiendo a las aclamaciones, mientras se prepara a descender del avión.
