

C21557F8

TRACKING STATION — The Goldstone Tracking Station is utilized to track and receive telemetry data from the U.S. Army space probe. The 85-foot-diameter antenna, built by the California Institute of Technology's Jet Propulsion Laboratory, is located on the edge of Death Valley in California. The probe is under the technical direction of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration. (58-19670)

C21557F8

SCIENCE — ASTRONAUTICS