

SECURED -- Astronaut Joseph Allen uses gaffer's tape to secure William Lenoir to the mid-deck area of the Earth-orbiting Space Shuttle Columbia during a biomedical test. Lenoir has electrodes attached to his face for measuring his responses to pre-designed activities for evaluation and comparison with similar responses on Earth. The two mission specialists were part of the first four-man crew sent into space. Also aboard were commander Vance Brand and pilot Robert Overmyer. (82-2513-C)

