

DESCARTES BASE -- Soon after the landing in the Descartes highlands of the Moon, Apollo-16 commander John Young began preparations to set up a permanent scientific station. In foreground are the lander Orion (left) and the battery-powered rover vehicle. This picture was taken by Charles Duke.

(72-1604-C)

