MARATHON MEN -- Pete Pfitzinger (left) passes Alberto Salazar as they approach the finish line to win the U.S. Olympic Marathon trial in Buffalo, New York. Pfitzinger, 26, from West Newton, Massachusetts, ran the course in a time of 2 hours 11 minutes 43 seconds. Salazar, from Eugene, Oregon, who was favored to win, placed second with a time of 2:11:44. Both men made the United States team for the Los Angeles Olympic Games in July, as did the third place finisher, John Tuttle. The marathon distance is 26 miles 385 yards (42.2 kilometers).
