

MARATHON WINNER -- America won it's first Olympic Marathon victory in 64 years when Frank Shorter, of Rancho De Taos, New Mexico, crossed the finish line at the games in Munich, Germany. At left, Shorter acknowledges the crowd's cheers after arriving first in the stadium at the end of the gruelling race. He finished with a time of 2 hours 12 minutes 19.7 seconds, more than 2 minutes ahead of the second place winner. A graduate of Yale University, he waves to the crowd after receiving the gold medal in the event. (right). (72-5927)
