OLYMPIC FLAME -- American athlete Rafer Johnson lights the Olympic Rings at the entrance to the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum. The lighted torch was carried by a relay of runners some 14,500 kilometers through 33 states after the Olympic flame arrived in New York City in early May.
Johnson won the gold medal in the decathlon competition at the 1960
