

Al igual que otros muchos funcionarios norteamericanos, el Presidente Truman se dirige a su despacho a pie. En la fotografía aparece cruzando la Avenida de Pensilvania, en Washington, al dirigirse a la Casa Blanca, donde no reside actualmente, a causa de hacerse obras en las habitaciones que ocupa en ella.

Like many officials and other employees of the United States government, President Harry S. Truman walks to work. He is shown crossing Pennsylvania Avenue, Washington, D.C., on his way to the White House from his temporary home in Blair House, which he is occupying while repairs are being made to the White House. (SD-50586. This photo is for release to publications in all countries excepting cities in France and in the American Republics with populations in excess of 250,000.)

