AID FOR THE HUNGRY -- Vice President George Bush is surrounded by occupants of the Wad Sheriffe refugee camp as he tours drought stricken areas in Africa. The camp, located in Sudan, has a population of nearly 70,000 refugees from Eritrea. Mr. Bush was on a week-long tour of famine-affected areas of Sudan, Niger and Mali. He pledged to Sudanese President Gaafar Mohamed Nimeiri that the United States would provide an additional 83,000 tons of food in fiscal year 1985, which ends September 30. This represents a 50 percent increase in the amount previously pledged.
