

C20510 F4

SAMPLER TRENCH -- The surface sampler on Viking-1 made this first trench in collecting soil for the life detection experiments aboard the spacecraft on Mars. The excavation is about five centimeters deep and 15 centimeters long. Project scientists noted that the steep dark walls indicate the surface material has adhesion, is dense, and behaves somewhat like moist sand on Earth. (76-1848)

