THIRSTY SPACEMAN -- Apollo-13 astronaut Fred Haise demonstrates for television viewers on Earth how to drink water some 320,000 kilometers out in space. Transmission was made April 13 just prior to the emergency that aborted the lunar landing mission and forced an early return. The supply of water, also used as a coolant for the spacecraft's vital equipment, had to be severely rationed during the voyage homeward. (70-1288)
