

GEMINI-8 ASTRONAUTS ARRIVE IN OKINAWA -- Gemini-8 astronauts David Scott (left) and Neil Armstrong arrive in Okinawa aboard the destroyer USS Mason. The spacemen brought their craft down in the Pacific Ocean some 800 kilometers east of Okinawa when they experienced trouble maintaining flight control after joining it to an Agena target vehicle in orbit. The parachute descent of their spacecraft was viewed by recovery planes and they were picked up by the destroyer about 3½ hours after splashdown. Both space vehicles were launched from Cape Kennedy in Florida on March 16. (66-0916)
