

REGAINING THE RECORD -- Dave Roberts, 25-year-old medical student at the University of Florida, bends a borrowed pole and pushes off to recapture the world record for the pole vault at 5.69 meters (18 feet $8\frac{1}{4}$ inches). He thus qualified for the U.S. Olympic Team at the trials in Eugene, Oregon. Roberts' pole snapped on his first try and he had to use the pole of Earl Bell of Arkansas State University. In May, Bell had broken the world mark set by Roberts in 1975. (76-1608)
