

MISSION ELEVEN PATCH -- Crew patch for the fourth flight of the Shuttle Challenger depicts the spacecraft in an oval flanked by a satellite being deployed (left) and an astronaut making the first non-tethered extravehicular activity. Eleven stars signify the eleventh Shuttle mission, which will be called flight 41B under a new numbering system. Below are the names of crewmembers Vance Brand (commander), Robert Gibson (pilot), and mission specialists Bruce McCandless, Ronald McNair and Robert Stewart. (84-564-C)
