LINCOLN SHRINE -- President Gerald Ford unveils the cornerstone of the Abraham Lincoln Home Visitors Center in Springfield, Illinois. Mr. Lincoln bought the white frame house in 1844 and lived in it with his family until he became President in 1861. Mr. Ford toured the historic site while in Illinois to campaign in the primary election. His words are inscribed on the stone: "It is to Abraham Lincoln that we owe the opportunity to observe our national Bicentennial at peace among ourselves and with all nations."
