

SPACE TREADMILL -- Additional exercising in space was credited with contributing to the good condition and quick re-adaptability to terrestrial gravity of the third Skylab crewmen. Here, Gerald Carr, the mission commander, works out on a treadmill device. A shoulder-and-waist harness holds him as he walks. The picture is from a movie camera mounted in the Earth-orbiting workshop.

C92577-60
(74-648)